C527_2 - Drugs, Vaccines, and Technologies Developed.

Kenya continues to face a substantial burden of Infectious and non-communicable diseases, alongside persistent sexual and reproductive health challenges. These priorities place increasing pressure on healthcare systems and highlight the need for innovative, locally relevant biomedical research to accelerate the development of safe, effective, and affordable health interventions.

Currently researchers are evaluating novel treatments and repurposed drugs for malaria, diabetes, contraceptive, cancer, obesity and respiratory diseases both invitro and using preclinical animal models

During the contract period, the Board commits to generating high-quality pre-clinical biomedical evidence through translational research using Non-Human Primates (NHP) and other experimental animal models. This will support the discovery, development and optimization of drugs, vaccines, diagnostics, contraceptive technologies, and other health innovations. Research efforts will focus on national and regional priority health areas, including malaria, respiratory infections, obesity, diabetes and contraceptives.
During the contract period FY 2026/2027, the Board shall deliver the following outputs under this Performance indicator:

C527_3 - Pandemic Preparedness and AMR Stewardship Strengthened.

Kenya has been facing an increasingly complex landscape of public health threats, including epidemic-prone infectious diseases, pathogen spillover from wildlife and livestock to humans and Antimicrobial Resistance (AMR). An integrated strategy is therefore required in setting up systems for the monitoring of human, wildlife and environmental disease signals, hence the One Health Approach. In this regard, one of KIPRE's stated functions is to contribute to early warning systems for emerging and remerging diseases.
Currently, we collect and continue to analyze samples from humans, animals, and the environment at high-risk disease interfaces across the country to establish a national hub for integrated biosurveillance and epidemic intelligence by linking One Health surveillance data with AI-enabled decision-support for data driven evidenced early warning systems.
In order to fulfill this role and promote Global Health resilience, the Board commits to undertake the following during the contract period:

C527_4 - Biodiversity Conservation and Ecosystem Health Enhanced.

KIPRE is keen in strengthening biodiversity conservation and ecosystem health by advancing research on non-human primates (NHPs), their ecology, and the linkages between climate, biodiversity, ecosystems and human health.

Currently, we are focusing on conservation of four threatened species and we supported 100 households in nature-based solutions to address climate change adaptation, resilience and improving eco-system health.

KIPRE will undertake biodiversity and ecosystem health surveillance to strengthen the national primate database and generate evidence for conservation and public health interventions. It will promote community-led conservation by supporting households to adopt Nature-based Solutions for climate adaptation and resilience. KIPRE will also restore degraded primate habitats through community-led initiatives and enhance public awareness by commemorating International Primates Day and World Monkey Day. Accordingly, during the FY 2026/2027, the Board commits to undertake the following:

Regulatory compliance is a fundamental pillar of responsible biomedical research. It safeguards research participants and animal welfare, upholds scientific integrity, facilitates innovation, maintains public trust, and ensures that research outcomes effectively contribute to improved health and healthcare systems. Adherence to nationally and internationally recognized standards is therefore essential for generating credible, ethical, and globally accepted scientific evidence.

Currently we are accredited nationally by NACOSTI but we strive to continuously improve and seek international accreditation.
During the contract period, the Board commits to strengthening institutional regulatory compliance by aligning the Institute's research, animal care, laboratory operations, and governance systems with applicable national and international standards, guidelines, and regulatory requirements. The Board will establish and implement a comprehensive Quality Management System (QMS) to promote standardized processes, continuous quality improvement, risk management, and operational excellence across its research programmes. Prudent asset and liability management in public institutions is fundamental to the efficient stewardship of public resources, the maintenance of fiscal stability, and the minimization of waste and financial risk, while strengthening accountability and maximizing long-term socio-economic value for citizens.
For purpose of tracking performance on assets, KIPRE is at the Phase of asset transfer from National Museums of Kenya (NMK) and asset ownership issues are not fully sorted out, which may influence the acquisition of some asset ownership documents and disposal plans of ideal and obsolete assets.
Thus, during the FY 2026/2027 contract period, the Board commits to strengthening asset management systems and governance structures to ensure effective planning, utilization, safeguarding, and reporting of all KIPRE assets through the following:

	Sub-Indicators	Unit of Measure	Target	Completion Date

F2 - Youth Internships/ Industrial Attachments/ Apprenticeships

In the previous financial year, the Institute hosted 69 PSC interns and 160 industrial attachment and apprenticeship students. The total trainee population exceeded the Institute's available laboratory infrastructure and technical supervisory capacity. In addition, the Institute is operating at 56% of its approved staffing establishment, limiting the availability of qualified officers to provide adequate mentorship and supervision. To align trainee intake with the Institute's available infrastructure and human resource capacity while maintaining the quality of training and supervision, the Institute proposes to reduce the annual intake to 40 PSC interns and 70 industrial attachment and apprenticeship students. The Board, during the contract period, commits to provide Youth Internship and Industrial Attachment opportunities to eligible youth as follows:
